CONTENT MANAGEMENT THROUGH SELF ADMIN AND TEMPLATE SOLUTIONS

Custom Content Website Management

Website Self-Administration Tools from Web Consulting Services allow you to self-manage information on your website through web-based content management tools and have it custom built to your exact specifications.

Your shopping cart can be built to process complex purchase situations that basic shopping carts can not solve. This purchase information is then stored in your custom built data base that is easily accessed on your web site and password protected.

Log in to your website and then edit web pages in a Microsoft® Word-like page. You only need to deal with adding and deleting the content like news, events, pages, images, pages, links, maps, a photo gallery or just about any information that needs to be current. See Demo

All of the information is stored on our ASP.Net database to provide a quick, powerful way to manage portions of your own website such as customer purchases, customer information, product pricing and more. Our system can be used to manage product information, customer lists and locations.

Other providers sometimes have admin areas that are either too limited or too cumbersome to be effective for most businesses or corporations. Our unique content management system gives you the power over only the areas that you need to change. This reduces the possibility for interfering with the integrity or design of the site, while giving you the flexibility to manage an infinite amount of information throughout your site.
